PREFACE

THE first edition of the Library Catalogue was issued in 1925. Since then two revised editions have been brought out in 1937 and 1942.

2. During the last 5 years there has been considerable addition of new books and official publications in the Library. It has therefore become necessary to bring out a fresh and revised edition of the Catalogue so as to make it as serviceable to the honourable members as possible.

3. The books in the Library, other than official blue books, administration reports and other periodical publications of a merely temporary interest are classified and arranged according to Dewey's Decimal System of Classification. The system was fully explained in the Preface to the 1942 edition, reprinted on the following pages.

4. The number of books in the Library on June 30, 1947 is 13,494. Of these Hindi books number 1,650 Urdu books 1,200 and English books 10,644. Efforts are being made to obtain as many good books in Hindi and Urdu as may be available.

5. For the convenience of the honourable members the Catalogue which so far was in one volume has been split up into three volumes, viz.,—

- (1) English, for books in English,
- (2) Hindi, for books in Hindi, and
- (3) Urdu, for books in Urdu.

PREFACE TO 1942 EDITION

SINCE the publication of the catalogue in 1937 a large number of books on different subjects including books in Hindi and Urdu have been added to the Library and this addition has necessitated the reprinting of the whole Catalogue afresh. The system according to which the books in the Library are classified and arranged is known as Dewey's Decimal Classification system. Official blue books, administrative reports and other periodical publications of a merely temporary interest are excluded from arranging under this system.

According to Decimal Classification all knowledge is divided into nine main classes numbered 1 to 9. Cyclopaedias, periodicals, etc., too general to belong to any one class, are marked 0 (zero) and form a tenth class. Each class again consists of nine divisions, general works belonging to no division having 0 (zero) in place of division number. Divisions are similarly divided into nine sections. This process may be repeated as often as necessary. Thus 328 means class 3 (Sociology), division 2 (Politics), section 8 (Legislation and Legislative Bodies), and all books dealing with this subject are numbered 328. Books on shelves and cards in the shelf list are arranged in simple numerical order. Thus 328, legislation, follows 327, foreign relations and precedes 329, political parties.

Within every section books are arranged alphabetically by names of authors, and in the case of biographies by the names of the persons written about. Where a book is not a biography and the author is not known its place is determined by the name of editor, publisher or printer, as the case may be. The relative position of books by the same author and within the same section is determined by their titles.

Every book has two numbers on its back. The upper is the class number and indicates the subject of the book and the lower is the book number and determines the place of the book within the same group. Both together make the call number and must be given when a book is called for. In this Catalogue the class number is given at the head of each section and the book number against each book on the right side.
